Dan Englund	3	77 Meters	75 Meters	152 Points

Format and Synopsis:

The King of the Hill Competition consisted of three rounds of jumping. Each round consisted of two jumps, which were then totaled for points (1 Meter = 1 point). If a contestant fell or touched the ground with any part of their body, they received no points for that jump. There were 13 jumpers starting in the first round, which was then cut to the top 7 for the second round. The third and final round consisted of the four top point earners.

Daniel Englund was King of the Hill after the first round, allowing him to sit out the second round of jumping. The third round saw two falls as Mike Fury and Will Schott were battling for the first three positions. As Mike Fury fell on the first jump and was unable to continue because of an equipment failure, this ceded the third position to Will Schott. Zak Hammill and Dan Englund were left to battle it out for first. Dan just edged out Zak by one-half meter when the dust had settled.

Final Results:

Daniel Englund – 1st
 Zak Hammill -2nd
 Will Schott – 3rd
